

Dear FCC,

You are no longer serving the public interest if you allow Sinclair to air anti-Kerry propoganda and call it news. Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. If Sinclair is allowed to broadcast this documentary, they should also be obligated to broadcast "Going Up River" so that people can make up their own minds.

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

If people at the FCC can get so excited over Janet Jackson's breast, but ignore something like this, then it shows that the FCC has lost all legitimacy. Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.

--Joshua McVeigh-Schultz